Pure, Fresh Corn Meal

Made of select corn.

All manufactured and for sale by the undersigned.

Second-hand flour barrels, our own preferred, bought for cash at our corner shop across the street.

We pay the highest cash price for wheat and corn. We also sell corn, bran and chicken feed and exchange any and everything in our line for wheat or corn.

Come to see us, or communicate with us, Street No. 220, South First, Telephone No. 356.

We spend our money at home for the raw material! Let us have some of it back for the manufactured article, so that we can continue to do business ourselves and at the same time help you. The money we pay out for grain and labor mostly stays in town, and the more our own people consume of our output the more we can make a market for home-grown breadstuffs and home labor. Business makes money circulate, one transaction helps another, and so it passes from hand to hand, and the community is helped. Yours for good times,

NEWS AND COMMENT.

Already the senatorial campaign in Indiana is being agitated and each dominant party may nominate a candidate in state conventions. There is a chance of the democrats carrying the state, but only if the platform is democratic, for if the silver issue is introduced the gold democrats will again act independently and the republicans will carry the state.

The second assistant postmaster general, in a review of the developments of the postal service, says the pneumatic tube service, now in operation in Philadelphia, Boston and New York, can be made profitable, but its extension will be slow.

"Regular" Republicans of Greater New York are worried over the big registration in Brooklyn and South Law's show of strength there and fear that he may be able to make a deal with the McLaughlin, or "regular" Democrats, there. The Tammany leaders, on the contrary, declare that the "regulars" will be loyal to them and do not appear to be much concerned over any possible throwdown.

SPECTACLES

VS.

BLINDNESS.

The vast amount of blindness occurs through neglect of an optical defect of the eyes not being attended to at the proper time. Many such cases have come under my notice. The patient has either been short-sighted, long-sighted or astigmatic in one or both eyes; but one to a large extent which they say, is their weak eye, the other having little or no defect (and should the case of the weak eye be short-sighted it increases rapidly) the eye with the great amount of optical defect gets out of use, similar to a squinting eye; the slight thus quickly deteriorates until it loses all perception of light, some simple accident having occurred to the other eye, causing permanent blindness. Others there are with a large amount of defect in both eyes—it may be long sight as well as mixed astigmatism. They can read for some time by holding the book very close to the eyes, owing to spasm of the ciliary muscles (apparatus short sight) and thus the patients consider themselves near-sighted, and believe they will improve as they get older, but it frequently ends in paralysis of the ciliary muscles with almost total blindness, or just sufficient vision to grope about with. That spectacles have been properly adapted in time to correct the error of refraction, they might have enjoyed good sight all their life time.

Dr. Goldstien's system of tests result in perfect fit, compensating for nature's deficiency, while preserving the adjusting power of "accommodation" of the normal eye; the large requirement has been nearly or entirely overlooked by most of the op-
